FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

At the close of business to-night it was generally credited in Wall street that the complications with reference to the Treasmry Secretaryship were ended by the resignation of Mr. Stewart and the acceptance thereof by the President. The gold market was again very fittil over the telegrams from Washington, and the range in fluctuations exceeded one per cent. The course of the premium was reflective of the varying character of the despatches received. The opening price was 131½, from which there was an advance to 131½. Rumors favorable to the TUESDAY, March 9-6 P. M. advance to 131%. Rumors favorable to the cases of Mr. Stewart, current at noon, sed a reaction to 130%, the lowest of the day. From this figure there a steady, advance to 131% a 132 about ive o'clock, the market being rendered firm by arge purchases on the part of houses who were "posted" on the subject of Air. Stewart's final with-trawal. Later there was a reaction from these dignest figures as a consequence of a pressure to ell by parties who were "long" of gold at lower

During the regular bours of business there wa fair activity in loans, which were made at 6 a 2 per cent for carrying. After Clearing House time lo vere made at from five per cent for carrying to flat for borrowing. The market was duller as compared with the previous two days, but the transactions in erdinary times would seem enormous. The Gold Exchange Bank report was as follows:—

At the after-Mr. Stewart's induction into office. At the afteracon board, this report having been disproved and bonds in London having receded to 82%, there was a yielding in prices to the opening figures, but without any pressure to sell—a condition of things which rendered the market very dull. At the style the bonds which are excluded from the favortes for exportation—were a shade firmer in consequence of the advance in gold. Prices closed as folows at five o'clock this evening:—United States

Southern securities were largely dealt in. Tennes-es closed one-half and North Carolinas about one or cent higher. Lousianas were steady. There ere no changes in the rest of the general list.

Foreign exchange was weaker. The advance in bonds abroad was made known here just about the imae of closing for Wednesday's steamer. The market is quite unsettled nowadays, and whatever temptation exists to buy at the educed rates is checked by the hope of a lower remium on gold. Nearly all the banks insisted to-day upon being obedient to its provisions. The exceptions intend to wait for official ratification from Washington. Where accommodation is not thus directly afforded a number of expedients are resorted to. Some of the banks endorse "accepted" instead of "certified." Others again make loans to their customers at the rate of one per cent per annum, covering an amount averaging the daily sum usually certified to. In other cases checks to this amount drawn on a different bank are deposited and the balance made good or the check redeemed before the close of busness as usual. Nearly all the banks ins ess. The law is a senseless and useless one. It is if no possible benefit to the community. The only bersons in danger from this system of certification are the stockholders of the bank, who certainty should have the privilege of managing their affairs as seems best to them. A loss resulting from the failure of the drawer of a certified check to make good his account would not fall upon the note-noid-ers or upon the public, but simply upon the stock-holders who entrust the matter of certification to

He would state that since the new direction came into office there had been no overissues of stock and no conversion of convertible bonds. There was a sworn statement to that effect at Albany. A vote was then taken and the proposition to call Erie met with only one dissenting voice. The meeting then adopted the call list and after some routine business adjourned to Thursday, when dealings in stock will commence with a formal session of the board.

The general stock market was firm and higher. The speculative feeling is fully awakened, but is confined to the cliques. The "outside public" has been but slimly represented in the transactions of the past few days. The feature to-day was Hudson River, which advanced beyond 140 on the strength of a report that a scrip dividend of fifty per cent is to be declared, but when is not stated. New York Central rose about one per cent to-day, and was largely dealt in, against the expected action of the legislative committee. Mariposa touched 16. Erie was steady in the vicinity of 36. Rock Island was very strong, selling freely at 120%. The express stocks steady in the vicinity of 36. Rock Island was very strong, selling freely at 120 %. The express stocks were firmer, on account of the settlement of the Merchants' Union litigation and a compromise between the Eric Company and the United States Company. As to the former suit, curious disclosures are made, showing the moduse operands of affecting the Wall street market. While there is no perceptible failing off in the number of those who attend sales, and the speculative feeling in the market appears to be well maintained, there is noticeably less excitement than earlier in the season, and in some directions an arrest of the activity that has heretofore been so much regarded. Prices have not failen off, but their present high figure, especially for suburban property, inducing a desire to realize before a possible reaction on the part of those who purchased only for purposes of speculation, there is a temporary lull in their further appreciation which would seem to be indicative of early pressure to sell. All who have purchased property in the neighborhood of New York city with a view to permanent investment, and are prepared to carry their lots spatil such time as the projected improvements which have given activity to the market are completed, are, as we have before said, perfectly sure of ultimate profit, even at the highest figures now ruling; but there are many who mave invested wholly with a view to an early sale at an increased value who will find themselves forced to sell at possibly concessions, from inability to bear the taxes appraised upon the anticipatory value property has notained through the speculative activity prevailing.

It is this matter of taxes that principally occasions the present arrest of the excitement which prevailed hast fall and earlier this year. These taxes would not, of coarse, be burdensone if the Pacific Railroad was already bringing the treasures of Assatic production to our warehouses in exchange for the manufactured weath of Europe, and, with Brooktyn and New York united by a bridge or bridges, the grandent of metropolitan development assured in our future were already um att accompil, and our population and commerce doubled; but while these things are yet to c make an assessment.

Q. (By the Assessor). State what was the amount of moneys borrowed by the firm of Clarke, Dodge & Co. in the month of November, 1883; A. In the month of November, 1883, the gross amount of moneys borrowed, divided by the number of days month of November, 1888, the gross amount of month of November, 1888, the gross amount of moness borrowed, divided by the number of days in the month, made an average of $1,792,000—the margins and deposits to be included in that amount. Q. Of that gross amount what sums were borrowed money used and employed in your business as brokers, borrowed from outside? A. $1,500,000; $90,000 were received from outside? A. $1,500,000; $90,000 were received as margins on stock transactions; $202,000 were deposits—that is, money received from our customers, for which interess was allowed.

The interrogation here ended, and Mr. Maxwell submitted to the Assessor a long statement the purport of which was intended to show that Clarke, Dodge & Co. were brokers and not bankers.

ACTION OF THE ASSESSOR.

Immediately after the termination of the Investigation Assessor Webster directed an assessment to be made forthwith on Messra Clarke, Dodge & Co., taking as his basis, it may be fairly presumed $1,500,000, which was the acknowledged capital of the firm in the month of November, 1863.

PRIZE FIGHT BETWEEN WOMEN.

An Event Characteristic of Massachusetts—
Brutal Prize Fight Between Two Abandoned
Women—Sally Chapman Whipe Mary Ann
Jones—Twenty-one Rounds Fouget.

Bosron, March 8, 1860.

The masculine brutes of creation can no longer claim that they are the exclusive patrons of the prize ring. The wemen of the country, or, at least, some of those resident in this vicinity, where O'Baldwin and Wormald had a brief encounter, have gone boldly into the arena in spite of the stringent laws of Massachusetts and the examples which the courts have made of the Irish and English bruisers before

Last Saturday evening two women of questionable repute, belonging in Portland street, in this city, one named Sarah Chapman and the other Mary Ann Jones, indulged in a brief commentary upon the respective physical endurance of each other, the result of which was a match of twenty-five dollars a side and the petticoat championable of America.

The funds to make up the round purse of fifty dollars were supplied by the backers of the respective feminine giadiators, and it was arranged that the contest should come off at an early hour yesterday morning at a hotel in North Somerville, some six or seven miles distant from the city.

The intelligence that a match had been actually made was quietly but extensively promulgated among the roughs and lower class of sporting men, and at about midnight the horse cars running between Boston and Somerville were freighted with those characters which are the terror of all peaceable Last Saturday evening two women of que Railroad.

The competitors, Saily and Moily, as they were familiarly termed, did not arrive until about haifpast two Sunday morning, but the spectators of the brutal scene, to the number of upwards of a hundred, were on hand two hours earlier, with a pleniful supply of genuine beazine and imitation Bourbon.

Their desires were that the fight should commence as soon as the principals arrived.

The recollection of the sudden descent of the police upon Wormald and O'Baidwin caused the proprietor of the hotel to have scouts sent out to ascertain if everything was safe, and a favorable report having been made preparations were at once commenced.

The landlord acted as stakeholder and referee, and a well known prize fighter and proprietor of a drinking asioon on Portland screet performed the dudes of second to Molly, and a Boston lackman did a similar service for Saily.

The place selected for the fight was a large dance hall in the third story of the building, and a ring was formed by the placing in proper position of a number of rough benches and tables.

During the preparations the crowd, which consisted of a number of abandoned women, as well as men, partook freely of liquor, and the result was that there were one or two outside knockdowns.

At about three o'clock in the morning the bloated proprietor of the nouse-announced that, the barrawould be closed until after the light, and there was an immediate and indiscriminate rush of both sexes in the direction of the upper hall.

The contestanta had gone before them, and were already in the ring, the habitiments of each consisting simply of a pair of ordinary drawers, stockings and women's gaters.
